There is a good chance that most disc golfers have not only heard about the Ice Bowl, but probably have played in several during the past 20 years. In case you just dropped in, Ice Bowl events are held in January and February wherever disc golf is played, regardless of the weather. The emphasis of these events, of which 170 have reported in time to be included in this article, is to play disc golf, have fun, and raise money for a charity, usually a local one. Working for local charity is emphasized as a way to positively integrate disc golf clubs and associations into the community at large. To let more people know what's happening, clubs are encouraged to seek media attention for these charitable events. Of course, local media is usually attracted to stories about people doing good deeds, but because Ice Bowls cannot be cancelled or postponed due to weather conditions, playing in inclement weather can sometimes be a hook for the media.

As the accompanying results chart attests, Ice Bowl '06 (we'll announce the final totals in Upshots in the Summer issue) has raised the most money ever—over $160,000, so far—more than doubling the amount raised in 2003, and pushing the grand total to over $651,000 since 1996. In addition, there was a record number of 7,821 participants, which might correlate with one of the warmest winters on record.

For the second year in a row, the Saint Cloud (MN) Disc Golf Club, led by Rick Rentz, and the Charlotte (NC) Disc Golf Club, led by Ralph Vickers, exceeded the $10K plateau. Saint Cloud's $14,000 eclipsed its all-time earning record set last year. Disappointed for the second year running because of the absence of snow and cold, Colorado's Mile High Disc Golf Club with John Bird at the helm, still raised over $7,000, nearly $3K more than last year. The 2006 Ice Bowl TD rookie of the year (actually of all time) is Bill Alderman of the Grand Valley Disc Golf Club in Palisade (Grand Junction), Colorado, who brought in almost $6K. Dave Fuller reports that the $5,300+ raised in Boyne City, Michigan was due to the business community's fervor for the event. Exceeding the $4,000 level for the first time were Huntington (WV) Disc Golf and the Kansas City Flying Disc Club.

In case you didn't notice, the weather this winter was a bit strange, especially in January. NOAA's National Climactic Data Center in Asheville, North Carolina reported that, "The United States had its warmest January on record, with an average temperature of 39.5 degrees F, which is 8.5 degrees F (4.7 degrees C) above the 1895-2005 mean of 31.0 degrees F." Looking at the chart, there are severe anomalies, such as two inches of snow in Buffalo, and relative balmy 28 degree temps in Saint Cloud with a mere two inches of snow on the ground.

The weather finally normalized in February when two Canadian venues—South River, Ontario (44 inches of snow -8 degrees F average temp) and Fernie, British Columbia (36 inches and -2 degrees) had very "real" Ice Bowls on February 18. A week earlier, the show went on as scheduled in Warwick, New York, which got a foot of snow, but missed the brunt of the storm that buried nearby New York City.

As mentioned, Ice Bowls are about fun and community. These qualities are impossible to quantify like dollars, degrees, and inches, but TD reports this year were full of fun happenings and good cheer. Pot luck meals featuring chili or soup were common. An increasing number of events sold mulligans as a way of raising charitable dough. Obviously, if one can buy one's way to a better score, then the other Ice Bowl suggestion of ratcheting down the competitiveness for a day is gaining credence with more events. Interestingly enough, there were a record number of three PDGA-sanctioned Ice Bowls this year, where fun was also reported, especially in Los Angeles.

If you are a disc golf Googler, then you saw the many articles that were generated both before and after many Ice Bowls. One of the most impressive articles that made the sports page with a huge photo above the fold on the front page appeared in the Star Beacon in Ashtabula, Ohio.

It was in Columbia, Missouri in January of 1987 when I scheduled the very first disc golf tournament called Ice Bowl. It was announced that there would be no cancellations, no postponements, no excuses, and no wimps allowed. Two months later in the inaugural issue of Disc Golf World News, we boldly proclaimed that we would promote it nationwide in 1988. We did, and obviously, we are still at it. In communications with Ice Bowl TDs, I light-heartedly call myself the Ice Bowl Instigator, because that's what I have done and continue to do. But the TDs are who make these Ice Bowls possible, and then the participants and helpers, whose generosity and good spirit, make Ice Bowls fun and successful. So, to all of the 7,800+ participants of Ice Bowl 2006—nice job! We did a good thing.

If you held an Ice Bowl and your event is not on this list or you are interested in running an Ice Bowl event in 2007, please contact DGW at info@discgolfworld.com or 1.888.237.6884.

THE GREAT 2006

The Great Canadian Ice Bowl Challenge 2006 featured 10 cities participating from across Canada with Ottawa, Ontario retaining the top spot in the challenge thanks to solid results with fundraising ($1,450), food donations (715 pounds), and cooperative weather (14 inches of snow). Calgary, Alberta, the 2004 champions, made a solid run for top spot but lost some ground due to warm weather conditions. The Calgary crew raised a phenomenal $2,623 in cash to finish as the top fundraising club in 2006. South River, Ontario had the coldest Canadian playing conditions with -8.6 F degrees air temperature and a colossal 44 inches of snow!
